The kitchen sink is the heart of our kitchen, and it needs a consistent water supply to keep it pumping i.e. helping us carry out all the different chores throughout the day. Most of the prepping, cooking and cleaning chores are carried out at and near the sink centre. The faucet that is hence paired with the sink needs to not only carry out these activities seamlessly but also look great in the process. It needs to rank high on durability and accessibility, which Häfele's new kitchen faucet Pluma perfectly does.

The highlight of this faucet is its completely built Stainless Steel 304 body which exhibits resistance to corrosion, scratches/ abrasion and stains and imparts high mechanical strength. Engineered and tested in line with global standards, Pluma gives you a consistent and trustworthy performance every time.

As the Stainless Steel material is lead free, this makes the faucet not only eco-friendly and recyclable but also prevents any unwanted reaction rendering the water absolutely safe for drinking directly from the tap without an ounce of worry. Easy to clean and maintain, Pluma with its rich Stainless Steel Brushed finish can be delightfully paired with Häfele's range of Argento Sinks to maintain design synergy in the kitchen while satisfying an array of individualistic needs.

Pluma blends seamlessly with Häfele's Argento Range of Stainless Steel sinks enabling synergy in your kitchen design
